

Stephen Robertson

Newton's counterfactuals

1

You all know the story that once
I received a slight knock on the bonce.
For sure my laws must have forever been lost
if the apple had chosen a dunce.

2

There remains a small bruise on my head insufficient to send me to bed.
Just imagine the grief and the consequence if it had been a pineapple instead.